Francis “Clem” Dinsmore, J.D. Joins Potomac Financial Private Client Group

McLean, VA (September 8, 2016) Francis “Clem” Dinsmore, has joined Potomac Financial Private Client Group, LLC as financial adviser. He has almost two decades of experience as a financial advisor with first A.G. Edwards & Sons and Oppenheimer & Co.

“We are very excited for Clem to join our practice,” said Michael R. Kalas, CFP®, AIF®, President of Potomac Financial. “Clem’s approach to including environmental, social and governance (ESG) factors when considering investments comes at an important time in our industry. All of our clients will benefit from this additional level of measuring the ethical impact of investing. We are looking forward to adding his expertise to our team.”

Clem will provide investment management and financial planning for clients who want to connect their professional and personal or advocacy concerns with how they invest their savings. Clem’s experience includes working with individuals, families as well as businesses.

“One of the existing advisors on the team, Tacy Roby, CFP® and I met at an environmental education event. I was delighted to meet the other advisors on the team and observe their strong commitment to the success of their clients by offering comprehensive financial planning. I am looking forward to being able to continue my focus on ESG investing while offering a broader array of services to my clients.”

Prior to becoming a financial advisor, Clem enjoyed a career as an attorney with Congressional committees and Federal agencies that supported planned community development or had regulatory jurisdiction over mortgage banking companies or thrift institutions. He also participated in regulatory efforts to restore and re-use abandoned and contaminated urban properties known as “brownfields”.

Clem received his B.A. in Religion and American History at Princeton University and graduated from the University of Michigan Law School. He served as a VISTA attorney in Southeast D.C.
